ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Broome Bros. has always endeavoured to use selected reclaimed or reprocessed materials to compliment the main source of aggregate created as a residual product by the power generation industry and continue to do so. Although primary aggregates are used in our dense products, they account for only 10% of the total tonnage used.

Although after production the curing process time is slower, unlike most concrete block manufacturers all Broome Bros's products are cured naturally and hence do not exploit the use of any fossil fuels in unnecessary curing plants, which further demonstrates our duty to protect the environment wherever possible.
